TWO CENTS

PLANS FOR STYLE AND TRADE SHOW ARE BEING PERFECTED

Many Merchants Will Have Exhibitions of Their Goods at Fair

MANY PRIZES WILL BE GIVEN

Plans for the style and trade show and vegetable and farm product exhibition to be held in Turner Hall on the 9th and 10th of September are being rapidly shaped. Both floors of the Turner Hall will be used by the committee in charge, and already quite a number of merchants have signified their intention of making displays, while gardeners and farmers are expected to make an exhibition of their products that will be both interesting and pleasing.

It is the plan of the committee to have booths arranged around the halls on both floors while the center of the floor space will be taken up with articles which will be competing for prizes. This list will be made up of plain sewing, fancy work, drawing and sculptor, canned goods, jellies, green vegetables, fruits and baking. Articles in the booths will not be in the prize competition, merchants having agreed to arrange their various displays as an additional feature of the show.

The stage will be utilized for the style show and this is expected to be one of the most interesting features of the occasion. These various styles will be shown by young ladies especially selected for the purpose, and this feature will undoubtedly appeal strongly to the fair sex.

Admission to the building will be free, and a splendid orchestra will provide music at all sessions of the exhibition. What the various committees desire at the present time is, that the public generally begin to realize the importance of the exhibition and prepare to take part in it. All classes of competition are open to any and all those who may wish to exhibit their skill and handiwork as well as to those who wish to make an exhibit of garden and farm produce.

A fine prize list has been prepared some classes carrying two, and others three prizes, while three prizes of $10 each will be given to those who take the greater number of prizes in vegetables, fruits and canned goods.

Merchants who have already signed up for a space in the building and who will maintain a booth during the exhibition are: Regan & Formell, Sanitary Tailoring & Cleaning company, Claybaugh & Milliken, Pau Dry Goods company, Schmeiler & Kimmins, Wayne, Berryman, Singer Sewing Machine company, Calistri's Bakery, Grant's Hardware, L. Collins, Sugar Bowl Confectionery, Leith Electric company, Stevenson's Bakery, Miller Fashion Shop, G. S. Might & Sons, J. E. Masters, Laufe Dry Goods company and H. Porter.

This list will likely be increased before the date of the exhibition, as all merchants approached on the sub-

FOUNDATION WORK ABOUT COMPLETED

The Dravo Construction company has practically completed the construction of the foundation for the coal elevator which the Pittsburgh Steel company will erect in front of their blast furnaces in Monessen, on the Monongahela river. The contracting company has taken away all its construction appliances, and just now is gathering up a quantity of material used while the work was in progress and loading it on a barge prior to shipping it back to Pittsburgh. The foundation has three concrete piers as well as a quantity of timber work, including a cluster of three ice breakers, all of which are now ready for the superstructure.

ARREST PROMOTERS OF GAS COMPANY

Stockholders of the Liberty Oil & Gas company, with offices in McKeesport, after conducting an investigation into the affairs of the company, have caused the arrest of T. H. Grady and M. E. Birney, of McKeesport, trustees of the company. The men will face two counts of embezzlement, and thirty counts of false pretense. They were taken to the Allegheny county jail and later released on furnishing $1,000 bail.

The company was organized late last fall, having secured a lease on a small plot at McKeesport. Stock was sold in all the surrounding territory east as far as Johnstown, at $100 a share. The promoters at one time claimed that $24,000. of the stock had been subscribed, but despite this fact, no efforts had been made to commence drilling, and local stockholders started an investigation.

It was found that practically nothing had been done after the derrick had been erected and even small grayage bills remained unpaid. When stockholders demanded the return of their money they were informed there was no money in the treasury.

A meeting of shareholders was held and one of their number appointed to make some settlement, and when this was not accomplished the charges were preferred before Alderman Marcus in McKeesport and the arrests followed. It is alleged the promoters have failed to account for the money secured from the sale of many shares of the stock and the shareholders are determined to bring them to justice for the alleged misuse of the funds.

Miss Edna Riley and nieces, Florence and Virginia Hughes, have returned home after visiting relatives in Ellwood City, Pa.

ject are enthusiastic in their support. This will be the first time such an exhibition has been attempted in Charleroi, and from present indications it will be a great success.

Coal Prices Show Slight Tendency to a Lower Level

Closing the week at a peak price of $13.50, the Uniontown coal market, which has its effect on the market of the Monongahela valley on Monday, veered downward slightly and on Tuesday was described as hesitant. While the market may be termed as a bit soft there is nothing to indicate that the downward trend has commenced. It would seem reasonable, however, that such may be the case, inasmuch as the inadequate car supply which has been held responsible for the high coal prices, and the number of cars made available for this region within the past two weeks has been greater than for any similar period since the transportation crisis developed with the unauthorized railroad strike. Classified coal on Tuesday had a quotation of $12.50 while what are known as line shipments for steam and by-product purposes were held at $10 and $11 respectively, with a none too great demand for either grade.

While the increased car supply may be held as the principal reason for the changed coal market status the various Service Orders undoubtedly put in theiricks. While the effect of either Order No. 10 or 11 may be termed as negligible in this producing region their cumulative effect together with the concentrated effort of government agencies to give the coal industry preferential treatment as regards equipment have all combined to bear down on the market. It would appear. The Northwest and New England orders established their individual markets at prices much lower than the prevailing spot. The increased car supply has enabled shippers approximately to meet contract obligations and at the same time comply with the enforced shipment orders. One analysis of the present situation is that the concentrated efforts to effect coal deliveries has finally commenced to bring the extremes of supply and demand nearer each other.

While the present car supply may be termed as abundant it does not yet approach car ratings, but is so much greater than the region has been accustomed to receive that its reaction upon the market apparently was immediate. Since the car supply has shown its increase serious thought has been given to the problem of motive power now coming to the surface. Some well informed observers are of the opinion that the railroads could not handle a normal car supply even were it available. The labor problem enters largely into the situation and until it is back on a normal basis it will be difficult for the railroads to function on a pre-war basis.

GRAND ARMY POST IS SLOWLY PASSING

J. W. Stephens Post, No. 111, Grand Army of the Republic, located at Elizabeth, which was instituted shortly after the Civil War with 46 members, will soon pass into history as an organization. During the past few years the death rate among the members has been high. Since its organization 152 members have been placed on the rolls, only eight of whom are living at the present time, and of whom only six are on the roll. Two of the charter members are still living, one of whom is W. S. Abraham, of Speers. The Post still maintains its organization but most of its business is done through the Sons of Veterans.

SUGAR PRICES MAY REACH NORMAL STAGE

Normal sugar prices are said to be returning rapidly, and in another month, authorities on the sugar situation believe, the retail price will be from 18 to 20 cents a pound. At present the market is 25 cents a pound, and if the new figures prevail it will be a drop of 5 cents a pound at least. There is said to be an increased supply of sugar in this country, attracted here by the extremely high prices. However, the market is reported to be glutted with a lessening demand.

MAKE RAID ON CARNIVAL MEMBERS

Brownsville officers in charge of Justice C. C. Garlotts, about 11:30 Tuesday evening, rushed down upon the McClaskey Greater Shows, which had opened earlier in the evening on Snowdon Square in that town, and arrested the two managers and nine members of the carnival company. The arrests and raid were made for operating without a borough license. It is said that paddle wheels, percentage wheels, games of chance and gambling were run. Immoral and obscene shows of the most lewd character were also said to have been exhibiting during the evening. The prisoners were taken to the office of Squire Garlotts and later to the county jail at Uniontown. Upon arriving at the county seat they arranged for bail to appear at the September term of court.

The McClaskey shows went to Brownsville from Apollo and Republic, where they had been operating for two weeks, and during all that time had been under the surveillance of the county authorities.

WILL SERIOUSLY AFFECT WAGON MINE OPERATORS

Copies of the Pennsylvania Public Service Commissions decision on the subject of cars for wagon mines were received in Pittsburgh on Thursday. The conclusion was reached that the decision is so far reaching as to be certain to put out of business most of the wagon mines which have been shipping coal by rail. On the other hand it is said that it will be a benefit to regular customers of the wagon mines really in business to supply coal by truck. These customers have been deprived of their supply in many instances, it is declared, that the coal might be handled three or four times by speculators.

PICKPOCKETS BUSY ON LOCAL STREET CARS

Two men charged with being pickpockets were arrested in Lock Four last evening at 6:30, one of them being caught in the act of attempting to rob William Barthe, a passenger on a car on the way over from Monessen. The men were taken to the lockup and placed behind the bars, to be given a hearing before Justice Harry Scott this evening. The man caught in the act had no money on his person, but his companion had $55, as well as a pay envelope from the Pittsburgh Steel company, with the sum $51.95 marked on it. It is believed that some workman was robbed by the two and an investigation is being made. It is believed by the officers that these two men have been working the local street cars, following payday at the Monessen mills.

PLUMBERS AND FAMILIES HOLD ANNUAL OUTING

The plumbers of the valley, accompanied by their families, held their annual outing at Eldora Park on Saturday, August 7th, and it proved to be a great success, regardless of the threatening weather, which finally turned out favorably. The day was spent in playing games and in racing, after which the picnic dinner was spread. In the sports events Zack Foster won the men's race, Mrs. Alice Carson the ladies' race, Mabel Allen the girl's race and Frank Sheldon the boys' race. After the six o'clock dinner each plumber was presented with a large box of candy.

HILL FAMILY REUNION ON SEPTEMBER 4th

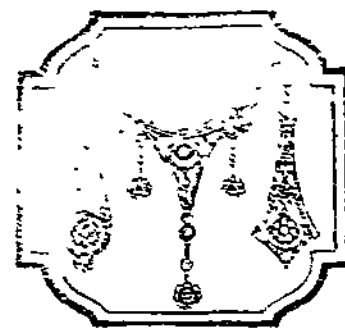

The fifth annual reunion of the Hill family will be held on Saturday, September 4th, at Oakland Park. The committee in charge of the event is preparing for a large attendance of members, and all that is needed to make the occasion a great success is favorable weather. C. M. Hill is president of the organization and J. F. Hill is secretary.

NO LONGER SIMPLE PROBLEM

Matter of Food, in These Days of Statistics, Has Become Question of Calculation.

Once upon a time this problem of food was a very simple matter. Three times a day, as a rule, the attention of man was drawn to a hollow feeling located due east of the lower end of the vertebral column. This vacancy he proceeded to fill with a slab of bread, a chunk of beef, a pot of rice, etc., flavored as a rule with butter, jam, garlic, etc., according to race, religion, climate, age, etc. This settled the problem, till the next call from the far East.

It pains us to say that this was living to eat and not eating to live. It showed no adjustment of means to end. It was a system of food that made no distinction between a land-shoreman and a free-rover poet. It was internal anarchy.

Happily the truth has been realized. The consumption of food is no longer destructive but constructive. Man no longer eats corned beef and cabbage, but the vitamins in the beef and the polyzeugmatics in the cabbage. When he picks up the bill of fare he no longer says, "What will most speedily and cheaply fill the void in my far East?" but he says, "Where can I find the 12,500 carboximids that will give me the right outlook on the League of Nations?" And he finds it in unpolished rice. Or he says to himself, "I am now at work on the fourth act of my poetic drama; to make it convincing to Belasco I must absorb 3,200 permaganzoids daily for the next 30 days." So he shaves the kernels off the corn and eats the cob. Perhaps with coconut butter, for the added colloidal saxophonians.

This very midnight in our great city a couple of army corps of feeding infants will be tilled to rest with 23,175 pneumodacrylines warmed up in a bottle.—New York Evening Post.

HAD IT ALL PLANNED OUT

Colored Soldier Knew Exactly What He Was Going to Do With All Those Black Clothes.

Here is a story of two negro soldiers, who were talking just after the signing of the armistice:

"Rastus," said one, "what you gwine to do when you-all gets home?"

"What am I gwine 'do? Wg! In the first place, nigger, I's gwine buy me a white suit o' clo'es, 'n white shoes, 'n a white shirt, collar 'n tie, 'n a white hat. I's gwine be white all over, nigger, an' den I's give up you nigger folks 'n allus do my 'sociating wid white folks."

"The boy paused, then asked: 'What you-all gwine do, Jake?' 'Well,' says Jake, 'I's gwine buy me a black suit, 'n black shoes, 'n a black shirt, 'n a black tie, 'n a black hat. I's gwine be black all over. Den, when dat's done, I's gwine buy me a big piece of black crape and fasten it round my black hat.'

"Olan," says Rastus, "what you-all mean by all dem black clo'es and by dat black crape? What for you gwine wear dat black crape?"

"Nigger," says Jake, "I's gwine wear dat black crape to your funeral."

A Leech.

A man on the South side advertised his car for sale. Early the next morning a man who lived across the street came over and said: "Pardon me, but I see by last night's paper you advertised your car for sale."

"Quite true," said the man who advertised the car, "but surely you are not in the market for it."

"No," was the reply, "but I, only live across the street and I also want to sell my car. And there would be no need of my spending my money for an advertisement if after the people were through looking at your car you could just send them across the street to look at my car."—Indianapolis News.

Representative Fear interrupted the reading of a report to say:

"Official language is always rather ludicrous. Once two scrubwomen in government employ had an argument, as a result of which the weaker vessel was laid up for some days."

"An official inquiry was duly held, and the victorious scrubwoman received a letter which said, among other things:

"As it true, as reported, that said Mrs. Hagan received certain ocular and nasal contusions at your hands?"

"The scrubwoman in official language wrote back:

"I regret to say that the answer is in the infirmary."

'At a Boy!

At the speedway races a fire company gave away toy balloons as advertisements. A lad about four years old came up to the man on the job and said: "Please may I have two balloons?"

The man replied: "Sorry, my little lad, but only one balloon to a boy. Have you any brothers at home?"

After a minute of deep thinking the lad gave this answer: "No, I have no brothers; but I have a sister who has a brother."—Indianapolis News.

Law and the Profits.

"How did you come to be a profiteer?"

"It was all because of the law of supply and demand," explained the culprit. "I was trying to get a sufficient supply of money to meet the demand for it."

Sheriff's Sale

EXPLOSIONS CAUSED BY DUST

Investigation Has Proved That Grain Is by No Means the Only Destructive Agent.

When the bureau of chemistry of the United States department of agriculture started investigations with the object of reducing fires and explosions caused by dust in the grain elevators and mills it was not long before the experts realized these fires and explosions were by no means confined to the grain business. These dust-explosion investigations are having a wide influence, which has extended to many industries. Aluminum dust, starch and even fish meal, a by-product of fish canneries, have all been found susceptible to the conditions which produce disastrous explosions.

The latest development goes to prove that the mysterious "blow sacks" so well known to firemen are in some cases caused by dust. With the knowledge of this fact as a guide many fatal accidents may be avoided. The firemen of America find the matter of sufficient importance to warrant their co-operation with the department of agriculture in a study of preventive methods.

The subject was taken up by the National Firemen's association at their twenty-second annual convention at Peoria, Ill. Engineers engaged in the dust-explosion investigations represented the department of agriculture at the meeting.

BIG TREE YIELDED TO AGE

Chestnut in Which Washington Is Said to Have Hidden Collapses at Yonkers, New York.

Maybe there's no truth in the tradition that George Washington once hid in the hollow trunk of the great chestnut tree that until recently stood in the front yard of Charles F. Coy, Yonkers, New York. But folk there about believe he did, just as they believe that the tree was 700 or 800 years old when it died a few years ago, and was the oldest and biggest tree of any variety not only in Westchester county but in New York state.

The trunk, which was about 35 feet tall and about 25 feet in circumference, according to Mr. Coy, was cut down by the department of public works of Yonkers, and its dismembered remains carted away. Said Mr. Coy:

"Before it died that tree produced the biggest and sweetest-tasting chestnuts I ever saw. After its death a vine that covered it made it still an object of beauty. Just as its vast size and age made it an object of admiration."

"The top was broken off about the time it died. I never knew its exact height. But I do know that a deal of tradition had grown up around it and that it commonly was rated the largest tree in this part of the country. I am sure it was the biggest in this county."

Sheriff's Sale

By virtue of a writ of Fieri Facias, No. 69, August Term, A. D. 1920, issued out of the Court of Common Pleas of Washington County, and to me directed on which inquisition and exemption are waived, there will be exposed at Public Sale at the Sheriff's Sales Room, of Washington County Court House, Washington, Washington County, Pa., Saturday the 4th day of September, 1920 at 1:30 o'clock P. M. of said day, the following described Real Estate, viz:

All the right, title and interest of Louis Kostner, of, in and to all those certain lots of land, situate in the Borough of Centerville, Washington County, Pennsylvania, being Lots Nos. Forty (40) and Forty-one (41) in the Denbo Heights Plan of Lots, recorded in the Recorder's Office of Washington County, Pennsylvania in Plan Book Vol. 4, at Page No. 156 and 157, bounded and described as follows:

"On the North by Marne Avenue, on the East by Lot No. Thirty-nine (39); on the South by Alicia Avenue; and on the West by Lot No. Forty-two (42) fronting Eighty and eight hundredths (80.08) feet on Marne Avenue and extending back in a Southerly direction of even width to Alicia Avenue. The Line between Lots No. Thirty-nine (39) and Forty (40) is Eighty and twenty-three hundredths (80.23) feet in length. The line between Lots Nos. Forty (40) and Forty-one (41) is One Hundred and forty hundredths (100.40) feet in length. The line between Lots Nos. Forty-one (41) and Forty-two (42) is One Hundred and forty-seven hundredths (147.07) feet in length. Reserving and Excepting all the oil and gas in and under said premises but without the right to drill or operate thereon on the premises above described.

Being the same lots of land conveyed to the above described Louis Kostner by Deed of J. Y. Bunn and Sophie E. Bunn, his wife, dated April 1st, 1918, and recorded in Deed Book No. 457, at Page No. 163 of the records of the said Washington County, Pennsylvania.

Taken in execution as the property of Louis Kostner at the suit of Harris Construction Company for use of Charles E. Phillips Sheriff's Office, Washington, Pa. August 11, 1920.

For Polishing High Class Furniture

You simply must try CRUDOLEUM for polishing furniture. Its touch leaves that rich soft glow that makers of high-class home fixtures take such pains to attain. Step into the finishing room of the piano factory, if you please; if you watch closely you will usually discern the little which contains the same old-time polish, "Petroleum," that brightened the homes of many years ago. It has marked the passing of many other polishes. CRUDOLEUM is the higher, cleaner, purer grade of that time-tested, undaunted petroleum.

Nature in its marvelous laboratory has compounded CRUDOLEUM with exactness, filtered and refined it until clean and clear, then stored it in the chambers of the rocks, from which place man's ingenuity sent it gushing cool and sweet, rich and bright in color, bubbling and sparkling into the sunlight a perfected and finished natural product.

Although its beautiful color was admired by many who visited the well, it was the president of the Simpson points. Will call at your Drug Co. who saw in it, on account of its exceptional purity, great possibilities as a superior product for drug and chemical uses. Mr. F. J. Johns who is the agent in Charleston, S.C. a large bottle for 35c, and is authorized to return your money to you if you are not pleased with CRUDOLEUM. If your druggist does not keep it, send 40c to Wm. M. Simpson Drug Co. Wholesale Druggists, Wilkesburg Station, Pittsburgh, Pa., and you will receive a half pint bottle by return mail.

EYE HAS GREAT SENSITIVITY

Wonderful Human Organ Capable of Adapting Itself to Any Possible Circumstances.

On entering a dark room after a stay in the outside daylight the eye at once begins to increase in sensitivity. At first this increase appears to be slow, but after five minutes the increase is quite rapid, the eye acquiring a sensitivity several hundred times its initial value. After 30 minutes' sojourn in the dark the sensitivity still increases, but more slowly than before, and after 45 minutes or an hour the maximum sensitivity is reached. The final sensitivity varies slightly with different people, but in fully adapted condition the eye is easily 5,000 or 10,000 times more sensitive than it was at the beginning.

These facts are obtained from a study of the sensitiveness of the eye in the dark made by Selig Hecht of Creighton university, Omaha, and published in the Journal of General Physiology. Mr. Hecht's study goes to show that the increased sensitiveness is due to a reversible photochemical reaction within the retina, involving a photosensitive substance and its two products of decomposition.

No Time for Interruption.

"However deplorable the fact may be, playing two-handed pinocle at 25 cents a hand is one of the favorite diversions of commuters between this city, New York, Atlantic City, Cape May and other commercial outposts of Philadelphia. One man, who carries his pleasures as well as his worries home from work, was playing pinocle in his library the other evening with a crony, when the butler entered and handed him a telegram. He returned it unopened. 'I'll look at it later.'"

"But the messenger is waiting, sir," the butler respectfully remonstrated.

The financier read the telegram. It said: "Struck 8,000-barrel gusher today. Everything fine."

"Confound you, Thomas, why did you spoil my game?" he cried.

He didn't care nearly so much about the fortune he had made, as about the 25 cents he was in danger of losing.—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Found "News" Exaggerated.

Believing that the United States was in the throes of a railroad strike and not a wheel was turning, Frederick R. Bartlett, wealthy sugar dealer and engineer, of Easton, Md., arrived at New York on the steamship Maracaibo from Venezuela with a powerboat and enough gasoline to run it to his home town. Reports received in the South American republic, he said, had indicated that he would have to make his way home without the aid of railroads or even automobiles, because of the gasoline shortage.

When Mr. Bartlett found railroads were operating he decided nevertheless to make a water trip to Easton. So the boat was slung overboard and with his wife and daughter he chugged away for home.

Apparatus for the manufacture of insecticide soon will be installed in the old Billip house at Tottenville, headquarters of General Howe during the British occupation of Staten Island in 1776 and since then a place of historic interest. Announcement of the sale of the property was made yesterday, and with it came the news that the old house will be converted into a factory.

All efforts to have the state purchase the house and preserve it and its dungeon and secret underground passageway as relics of the War for Independence were unsuccessful.—New York Times.

Marry in Haste.

At a tea a number of ladies were discussing the best age at which to marry. Some championed thirty years, some twenty-eight, some twenty-seven. Then Miss Elsie De Wolfe, who has so brilliantly succeeded in so many fields, laughed and said: "The best age to marry is while you're still too young to know better."

TO DESTROY INSECT PESTS

Two Forms of Insecticides Necessary for Successful Protection of Plants and Foliage.

Do not waste your time spraying paris green on insects that suck the juices from plants and foliage, such as lice, green, black and white aphids or fly, mostly big red spider and scale, by thrusting their proboscis into the leaf or stem, for they are not affected by stomach poisons. They must be destroyed by contact insecticides. Those in powder form kill by closing the breathing pores in the insect's skin, or in fluid form by being absorbed through these pores, the American Forestry Magazine points out. The best contact insecticides in powder form are hellebore, slug shot and tobacco dust. The best in fluid form are aphine, black leaf 40, fish (whale) oil soap, nicotine (tobacco extract), kerosene, miscible oil and lemon oil.

Insects that eat plants, foliage, vegetables, fruits, flowers, etc., whether bugs, beetles, worms, caterpillars or slugs are more quickly and effectually destroyed with a poisonous stomachic insecticide, such as arsenate of lead, paris green or hellebore. These, if applied according to directions are so diluted as to be harmless to vegetation and to animal life. Less poisonous stomachic and contact insecticides are kerosene emulsion, slug shot etc.

Boy "Policeman" Gets Results.

Bill Zerbe, formerly of Indianapolis, is motorcycle policeman in the Loganport police department. Both the young and old know Bill because of his record as a tamer of speeders.

A few days ago the driver of an automobile permitted the motor of his machine to run while he went into a store. When he came out he found a piece of paper in the front seat of the car. On the paper were these words: "You are pinched for permitting the engine of your machine to run over 15 minutes. Bill Zerbe."

The driver of the car went to police headquarters to pay his fine and exhibit the evidence that he had been caught. On being assured that the paper presented had not been prepared by Zerbe, the driver of the machine recalled that he had seen a small boy with a broad grin on his face standing near when he started toward the police station.—Indianapolis News.

Electricity to Locate Metal.

The idea of using current transmitted through the earth as a means of locating metal ores is familiar, the belief being that the greater conductivity of these metalliferous regions can be clearly indicated, and the area mapped out, says the Scientific American. The location of oil deposits, which according to the Electrical Review is now being investigated electrically, presents a converse problem. In this case the insulating properties of the oil diminish the current, and oil-bearing regions are detected accordingly. In view of the great depth to which it is often necessary to bore for oil—that only exists simultaneously with an almost oil-free area above—the method would seem to have limitations, but it has doubtless possibilities in dealing with surface oil areas.

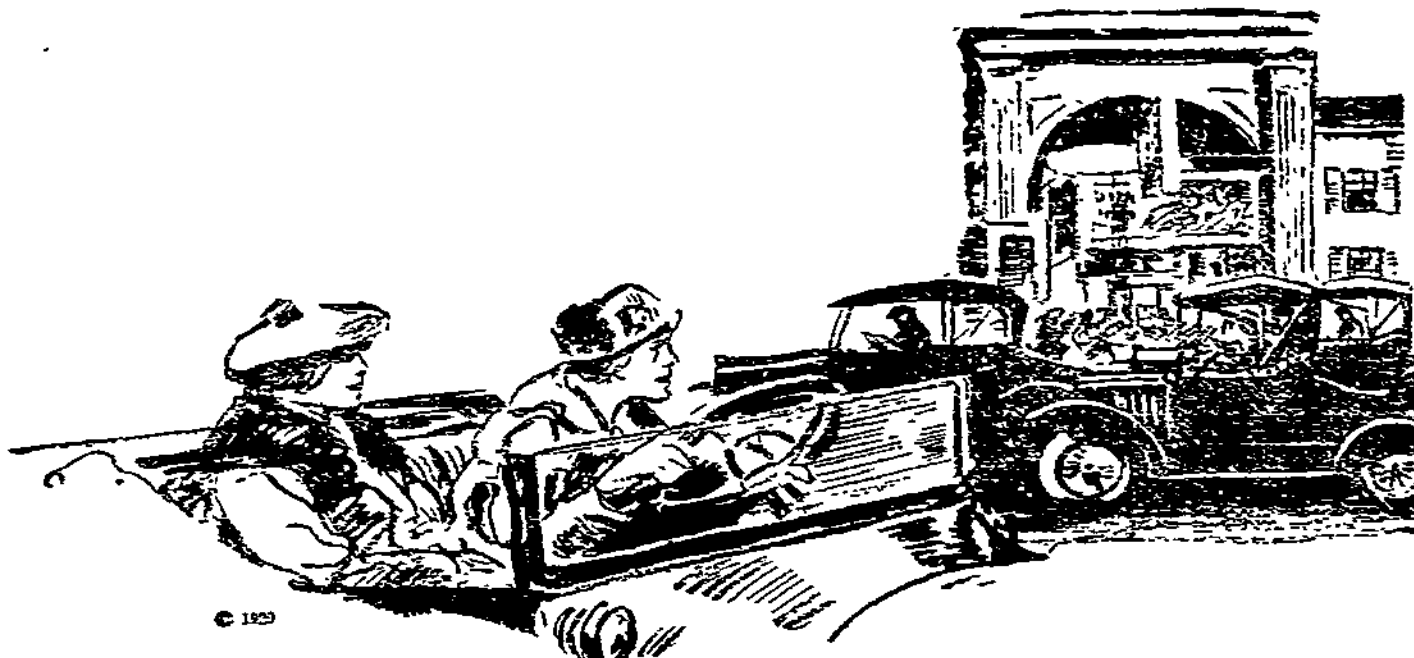

George was in a despondent mood. "But, Mabel, dear," he said, "marriage is out of the question just now. You seem to have forgotten that I'm a poor clerk on a meager salary."

"Oh, George, don't let poverty interfere with our happiness. We can live on one meal a day, if necessary."

"But you know nothing of household duties, sweetheart. Why, you can't even cook."

"Indeed, I can, love. I have kept it secret from you but the time has come for my confession. George, dear, I got a certificate from a domestic science school three months ago."

The young man gasped. "My darling," he said, "come to my arms. It shall be as you wish—one meal a day will be more than enough."

What's done as much as anything else to fill up the movie houses

LOOK at the crowds that step out of their cars in front of the movies every summer evening.

The movie managers would be renting half of their theatres for store space, if it weren't for the automobile.

II

It is typical of Americans that they took to the automobile as a matter of course—just as they have to the movies and to every other great invention of the last half century.

And the same thing has happened everytime. Taking things as they come is a fine way to foster waste and extravagance.

As regards tires, the comeback is about due. People are pretty near through paying for something that isn't there when they look for it.

III

What a man pays for in a tire is quality—not a limited number of miles or the privilege of getting a rebate in case the miles don't come up to the limit.

U. S. Tires are guaranteed as to quality—with no limitation of mileage.

And that holds just as good for the small car tire as for the biggest U. S. Tire we've got. There's only one standard of quality with U. S.—and the size of the car has nothing whatever to do with it.

IV

We represent U. S. Tires in this town. You'll find it worth while to talk to us before you buy any more tires.

DEATH FOR COWARDICE.

The attention of thoughtful observers is arrested by the official announcement that 343 death sentences were carried out in the British army during the World War. 266 of these executions being for desertions. The death sentence for desertion is supported by public opinion because it is understood that without the fear of this extreme penalty the disintegration of an exposed army might reach dangerous limits in times of the very greatest stress. No doubt the 266 death sentences for desertion are approved by the majority in England, but when we read that 18 out of the total of 343 executions were for cowardice, it is not surprising to learn further that there is an uneasy feeling that some of these sentences were unjust. There are American readers who now hear for the first time of death sentences for exhibitions of cowardice, having previously supposed that men caught retreating to the rear without orders were severely punished but not shot.

It is stated that as the war proceeded the mental condition of men charged with cowardice was more carefully studied by experts and penalties were meted out with more discrimination. In some cases hysteria and shell shock were found to be responsible for behavior that would formerly have been attributed to cowardice. A man may be regarded as a despicable coward when in reality he is a nervous wreck incapable of command over himself. Obviously it is desirable in such cases that the mental condition as revealed by psychological examination should receive studious attention.

OUR NEXT BEST CUSTOMER.

There are many good reasons for neighboring good feeling between the United States and Canada, such as the kinship of original daughters of the same motherland, the same language, similar laws, and a civilization of the same basic foundation. But even if none of these existed the United States would need to look with a friendly eye upon Canada as our biggest customer among the nations with the sole exception of England. There is much talk of cultivating trade with South America but little of any talk of fostering trade relations with Canada, that trade having been for years of such great proportions that we think little about it taking it as a matter of course. Canadians buy $800,000,000 worth of American merchandise annually, which is more than is bought from us by all South America, Africa, Asia, and Oceania combined.

Prior to the war Canada's sales to us nearly balanced her purchases and then the rate of exchange did not seriously interfere with business. During the war Canadian purchases in this country increased enormously and an adverse trade balance was developed. The subsequent discount on the Canadian dollar in this country and other war heritages now restricting trade have caused 200 American manufacturers during the last year to erect or lease plants in Canada. Obviously it is highly desirable that in the case of so valuable a customer as Canada war difficulties or heritages should be removed as soon as possible and that the freest possible trade relations be restored.

PUBLIC OFFICE AND THE PRESS

Doubtless there is a widespread impression that the newspaper fraternity feels honored, and ought to be honored, because both the great parties have nominated newspaper men. Those under this impression may be surprised to find that a newspaper of high standing the Springfield Republican, thinks "it may be doubted that through the newspaper offices of the 48 States there went any thrill of national pride when first one met another Ohio editor because of the nominee of his party." According to the Republican, "the pride of the country correspondent, of the cub reporter, of each man or woman who is worthy of that position which Edmund Burke celebrated consists in telling, and being encouraged to tell, the truth as he sees it, and not in being the tool of any interest or of any selfish ambition."

The Springfield Republican even goes so far as to doubt whether the Presidential nomination of two newspaper men will of itself be good for either the press or for the politics of the country. "It will be especially bad for both if it leads newspaper work or newspaper ownership to be increasingly looked upon not as an opportunity for disinterested public service, but as an advantageous means of satisfying selfish ambitions for political office." Nothing that many newspaper men have held public office and more undoubtedly have unwisely sought it," the editor quoted asserts that no public office has ever added to a really great newspaper fame, and declares that "only with rare exceptions does the passage of a man from the ranks of the newspaper workers to those of the office holders fail to strike a blow, at least indirectly, at the independence and disinterestedness of the press."

IT CAN'T BE DONE

In an effort to keep the prices up both tanneries and shoe factories are being closed in New England. Rather than accept the slump in the market, leather producers and shoe makers hope to maintain prices by curtailing supply.

It can't be done. The tendency is downward. The markets are flooded with leather and hides are accumulating. They cannot be held in storage in the present high money market, with its limited borrowing capacity and when some tanneries close others will be quick to meet the shortage thus created by spreading up and making money on quantity sales at lower prices.

The same will apply to the shoe market. The factories that are making money today are those which are adjusting themselves to new conditions and operating to capacity, giving their customers the advantage of price shrinkage.

The time is past when commodity prices can be maintained in this country by artificial means. We have a much greater capacity than before the war and the manufacturer who has an eye to the future will be much more interested in having his plant going full time than in trying to stem the tide of the irresistible law of supply and demand.

THE SPEED MENACE

If the speed maniacs endangered only their own machines and their own lives, there wouldn't be anything to worry about. Perhaps the world would be better off and safer if they would wreck their machines and kill themselves.

But the man who goes tearing through a city street at 40 miles an hour is a menace to others. Other motorists are not safe on the same street; pedestrians are not safe on the sidewalks or at crossings.

The speed fiend is one of the most dangerous of criminals, for he is nothing but a criminal. His criminality lies in his indifference to the safety of others. Officers of the law do well to hunt him down and judges upon the bench are recreant to their duty to the public when they do not impose the full penalty of the law upon him.

The speed maniac is not to be shown any mercy, at any time by anybody. That is why he talks to deaf ears when he goes to the newspaper office and asks that his name be kept out of print after he has been arrested.

WHAT G. O. P. DID

The United States is now living within its income, according to the report of the Secretary of the Treasury for the fiscal year which ended June 30. The report shows that the income of the Government exceeded disbursements by $291,221,547, an income which might readily have been turned into a deficit amounting to $648,470,994.97, according to Representative Frank W. Mondell of Wyoming. If the Republican Congress had accepted the estimates of the administration for the expenses of the Government during the year. The same report of the Secretary of the Treasury shows that since the Republican party has been in majority in Congress the public debt has been reduced $2,297,339,180. Further reduction in the expenses of the Government and in the public debt is promised during the present year by the action of the Republican Congress in saving $1,474,422,602.16 below the estimates of the present administration.

PROHIBITION NO ISSUE

Strenuous efforts have been made by many people and many interests to make prohibition an issue of the present national campaign. They seem to have failed. Both of the big political parties have refused to champion definitely the cause of either the wets or the dries. Both seem to take the position that, whether they like prohibition or not, it is here to stay and must be enforced.

In both parties are wets and dries—in what proportions it is probably futile to inquire. The important point is that neither of them wants to, or dares to, meddle with prohibition. They recognize that it is an issue which cuts across party lines, and has nothing necessarily to do with either of the parties. The Anti-Saloon League seems disposed to take the same position, and hold itself aloof from partisan alignment, as it has done heretofore.

This is doubtless the best attitude for everybody concerned. There is no use fighting over prohibition at this stage of the game. When it is by common consent, recognized as an accomplished fact, the parties can proceed with less difficulty to settle other vital problems, of a more partisan nature, on which the nation has yet taken no positive stand.

SERVED WITH HIM

Democrats think they are prejudicing the Republican cause by alleging that Harding was picked for the nomination by a group of U. S. Senators. That will scarcely hurt Harding in the public mind. Senators are now chosen by the people and many of them were also sent as delegates to the convention. Harding must be a man of tact as well as ability in order to win the confidence of his associates in the Senate.

Why should bread sell at 16 cents a loaf with wheat so plentiful that the crop of 1918 is far from exhausted, let alone that of 1919? The only ready answer seems to be the counter query—ask something easy.

"Peace at home first," says Harding. Right; a war to settle Europe's difficulties just now would be mighty unpopular.

Mr. Palmer has a woman assistant, probably with the idea of dealing in a more ladylike manner with the profiteers.

HONORA POLICE ARE

This makes the third mail car that has passed through Brownsville. Two have come from New York and the third passed through Monday morning about 6 o'clock from San Francisco. Another car was scheduled to pass through Brownsville on Wednesday.

CARRY INSIGNIA OF HONOR

War Department Has Decided That Planes Shall Retain Distinguishing Marks Earned in War.

Buddy back on the farm is going to get an awful shock one of these days when he looks skyward during a lull in the plowing. A plane is going to appear overhead and he will instantly recognize the insignia painted on the fuselage of the stellar aero squadron that worked for his division at the time they were hoeing their way through the Argentine. In the Home Sector, Frederick J. Darle says: "The decision of the war department to retain the distinguishing insignia will in any event make the identification of the planes easy for civilians. More and more the army planes—old as they are—are undertaking long flights. They appear unexpectedly over cities far away from their stations and many a farmer these days sees a gargantuan propelled beetle settle down in his back pasture. When an army plane comes flying by or lands near us, we will soon look for the insignia, just as everybody once looked for the state automobile license tag when the tourist's dust covered auto passed. When the pedestrian sees a plane decorated with the painting of a kicking mule, a silhouette, scythe-swinging skeleton or a witch astraddle a broomstick, he may wonder what battle record the insignia stands for. He may guess rightly that the tiny winged elephant on a plane is a sarcastic commentary on the plane's speed, but he probably would like to know whether this plane is from a burden-bearing squadron that hauled tons of bombs over the lines to drop them on German railway junctions."

MADE FEAST FOR LOBSTERS

Crustaceans No Doubt Highly Appreciated Mackerel That Seemed to Be Provided for Them.

"Charlie" is well known in his home town of Rockland. While covering his route along the south shore, he got a taste on some nice lobsters and purchased six dandies. A fat mackerel also caught his fancy while speculating in sea food and he took along the handsome specimen. Charles put the mackerel in with his lobsters and, cranking up his truck, headed for home.

"I've got something here, all right," said Charles to his better half as he carried the big bundle into the house. He dumped a crawling mass of crustaceans on the table but nowhere could he find his mackerel. Back to the auto he went but the fish had disappeared. When the lobsters were boiled and served it was noticed there was a decided flavor of mackerel to them. The ciners' suspicions were aroused and, seeking authority, Charles was told that he had guessed correctly—the lobsters had eaten his mackerel. The hungry shellfish, being brought up on salted herring in the traps, were not slow to realize that an epicurean dish was being served them on the long ride home. They made the most of it, too.—Brockton Enterprise.

Modern Morals.

Lady Duff Gordon said at a tea at the Ritz:

"There are young women who would rather be ultra-fashionable than anything else. In their eyes nothing matters but that."

"Two young women were lunching when a third young woman passed in the company of an elderly married pair."

"There goes Maud," murmured the first young woman. "They say that she and old Mr. Goldie spent the weekend at Atlantic City together."

"Oh," said the second young woman in shocked tones. "Oh, what a libel on poor Maud! You know you couldn't drag her with wild horses to such a vulgar, common resort as Atlantic City."

The regular commercial air line has already come to stay. At present the longest passenger air service running, or rather flying, on regular air service is between London and Paris. The distance of 250 miles is flown in about three hours, often less. The fare is at the rate of a shilling a mile, or $67 for the trip. Even today these air passengers enjoy all the luxuries of modern travel. Nearly a score of passengers are carried in a comfortable cabin, seated in upholstered chairs. The cabin is lighted with electric candles and decorated with gilded mirrors. Several transatlantic air lines are planned. It is calculated that they can be run at a profit by charging $500 for an air passage.—Boys' Life.

Eliza Root on his seventy-ninth birthday reception in New York, talked philosophically about success and failure.

"After all," said a poet, "it's no disgrace to fail if you have done your best."

"Maybe not," said Mr. Root, "but all the same it's pretty rough to have to admit that the best you can do is to fail."

China's Potential Armies.

If, in a war, an enemy started killing Chinese soldiers at a million men a year, and if China were using 10 per cent of her population in that war, it would take fifty years to destroy her first armies, and in that period two further Chinese forces of fifty million would grow up to confront their enemy.—Hast Matthews in the British Review of Reviews.

When Sleep Will Not Come.

Don't hate the world and kick all night just because you don't happen to go to sleep. It damages your own nervous system, and any tender regard in which your roommate may have held you. Anxieties eat up energy and are responsible for next morning's very unpleasant day-after feeling. The lack of sleep mattered not at all. If instead of thrashing about viciously you had curled up cozily and day-dreamed, your night might have been salvaged, all might have been well.—Exchange.

The Earth's Crust.

Interesting facts concerning the earth's crust were disclosed by Col. Sir Sidney Burrard recently. "Isotasy" is the particular science which deals with the structure of the earth, and Sir Sidney told how all mountains and heights standing above the sea level are compensated by deficiencies of matter underlying them below sea level, and that all oceans and surface hollows dipping below sea level are compensated by excesses of matter underlying them in the crust.

Preserving Spider Webs.

Naturalists employ an ingenious method in order to preserve the web of the spider. The webs are first sprayed with a thin solution of artist's shellac and then, if of the ordinary geometric form, they are pressed carefully against a glass plate, the supporting threads of the web being severed. After the shellac solution has dried the plates carrying the webs are stored in a cabinet for later use in scientific work.

The Continents.

Modern usage recognizes four continents—Eurasia, Africa, North America and South America—and is divided as regards Australia, which is variously styled a continent and a continental island. The title, Antarctic continent, is sometimes given to a great body of land supposed to occupy the south polar region. Formerly Europe and Asia were accounted as two continents.

Something Like Cold!

A commercial traveler gives a terrible account of the intense cold in Sweden: "In Haparanda, the day before I left, I attended a performance at the theater. It was a tragedy. Everybody wept; but it was so cold that the tears of the spectators in the gallery fell like hailstone among the occupants of the stalls."

Precursor of the Piano.

The harpsichord, comparatively modern, represented an attempt to construct a horizontal harp—that was played upon by means of oblong wooden keys called "jacks." Our piano is a modified and improved harpsichord, invented in 1711 by Bartolomeo Cristofalo of Padua.

Ancient Musical Instrument.

It seems not unlikely that the earliest form of the harp was the instrument we call a lyre. The latter was possibly the first of all stringed instruments. One finds it represented on the monuments of ancient Egypt and, though so long obsolete, it often appears in modern architecture as a decoration.

"The Three Kings of Cologne."

This refers to the three wise men of the East who followed the star to the birthplace of Jesus Christ. Their names are usually given as Malthazar, Gaspar and Melchior. Their bones are supposed to be preserved in the cathedral of Cologne.

Admiration Goes Out to Him.

We may say a fellow shows bad taste in devoting his life to painting or sculpturing, but at the same time most of us have a sneaking admiration for the one who can naturally do things we can't.

A person who is too nice an observer of the business of the crowd, like one who is too curious in observing the labor of the bees, will often be stung for his curiosity.—Pope.

Leading Question.

"My wife is practicing with dumbbells," proudly exclaimed a would-be athlete. "Do you find them any softer than the flatirons?" queried a wag who overheard the remark.

Where Women Equal Men.

In Italy women teachers, school inspectors and employees in the administration of antiquities and fine arts receive the same pay as their male colleagues.

"Safety First" Better Known.

Today "safety first" is one of the most common expressions in the English language. Every one knows what it means and the principles it stands for.

Daily Thought.

As "unkindness has no remedy at law," let its avoidance be with you a point of honor.—Hosea Balfour.

Queer Old-Time Signals.

On the first railroads a candle stuck in the snow meant "stop," its equal to go.

BROUGHT BACK SAD MEMOR

Little Wonder That Comedian Could Not Look on Buns With Any Degree of Affection.

"I never eat buns," the comedian said sadly. "They remind me of a horrible experience I had once."

The listeners drew near, thrilled by the tenderness of his tones. "I was on a ship in mid-ocean," went on the comedian dramatically. "Her cargo was self-raising flour and currants, and a touring theatrical party. Suddenly, in the dead of night, we ran into an iceberg."

"There were no boats, so things looked very desperate for us. The huge waves dashed over the sides and down the hatchways."

"Then we heard a curious noise. The water had got to the self-raising flour and presently it began to ooze up in large blobs, like buns, with the currants mixed up in it."

"As the great lumps of dough floated on the water the heat of the sun baked them hard. I got on top of one of the largest and floated away from the sinking ship."

"But, alas! the ocean there" was full of sharks and they seemed to like my bun. Anyway, they nibbled and nibbled at it, and daily it grew less, until I had hardly room to hang on. I got washed ashore just when there were only two bites of bun left for them."

"Ever since then," he ended, with a sigh, "I haven't been able to look at a bun without shivering."

KNOW LITTLE ABOUT EARTH

Dwellers on This Globe Have Shown No Curiosity Concerning Possible Wonders of Its Interior.

The earth's crust is compared to the skin of an apple by the writer of a leading article in the Scientific American Monthly. Our knowledge of the globe on which we live, he says, is not even skin deep: for an apple as large as the earth would have a skin twenty miles thick, and no one has been more than a mile or so to the crust, or has bored into it with tools more than a mile and a half. It is rather humiliating to think that we know more about the sun, thirty millions of miles away, than we do of the solid earth under our feet. We think of the earth as a solid globe, but it is nothing of the kind. Exploring expeditions to the bottom of the ocean have been proposed, although the latest explorer has not dared to suggest going further than twelve miles—a trip that would take him to the surface of the earth only from one end of Manhattan Island to the other.

Success Through Optimism.

At one time while building the Panama canal there were eight thousand men engaged in the Culebra cut alone. Every night as much soil slid into the cut as could be taken out during the day. But there was not a sign of discouragement—the men enjoyed the fight. Colonel Goethals walked through the cut one morning just after an extensive slide. The foreman had been on the job since midnight.

"Well, how is everything this morning, Mr. Hogan?" asked Goethals.

"Fine, Colonel, fine. It buried that steam shovel over there and tipped over two batteries of drills and covered all the tracks through the cut but one, but everything's fine, sir. We're diggin'."—H. H. Moore in The Youth of a Nation.

Assyrian "Ambassador."

The Lady Surma d'Mar Shimun has arrived in London as the official ambassador from the Assyrians in the Kurdistan mountains, says the Argonaut.

Very handsome, not unlike the queen of Montenegro in profile, very bright, lively and animated, Lady Surma d'Mar Shimun is only a little more than 30 years of age. Of fine physique, she is also a highly cultured woman, so cultured that the archbishop of Canterbury closed a recent interview with the "ambassador" with the remark: "It is extraordinary to find so much civilization where one could naturally have expected barbarism."

The Atlantic Patrol.

After the war of the Titanic, 11 of the leading nations of Europe joined with the United States and Canada to provide a service for the preservation and patrol of ice along the north Atlantic steamship lines. These nations contribute a different proportion to the expense of this service, but the work is done by the United States coast guard cutters. Several of these who strike back and forth along the winter months when the icebergs come south and send out to all vessels wireless reports of the location and movements of the ice—Boys' Life.

Had No Experience.

An artist was showing a young woman over his studio. After she had critically examined all the pictures, she remarked: "I notice several subjects among your works, but not a single sunrise. How's that?"

The artist, who was rather tired for his bohemian habits, blushed a little at the question, and then stammered:

"You see, it's this way. To tell the truth the reason I've never painted a sunrise is because I'm never up at that time."

Many Reasons for Insomnia.

Whenever sleep becomes coy and must be wooed it is a sign that something has gone amiss and must be remedied. To obtain sleep then becomes a search for a complex mental, emotional or physical cause in the side. Loss of sleep may be due to some physical cause such as an overburdened intestine or stomach, an abscessed tooth root, thickened tonsil, a skin irritated or cold, or an infection in some hidden, walled-off area of the anatomy. Equally as often some unconscious memory of financial reverses or difficulties, domestic complications or some other work banishes sleep.

After Studying the Sparrow.

We spend considerable time observing the English sparrows and studying their character and have about reached the conclusion that, even if that well-meaning but misguided British cousin had had sense enough not to bring them over, they would have got here somehow anyway.—Ohio State Journal.

Giving Her Fair Warning.

John had just been reprimanded by his mother for something he had done, when he went into the bathroom where his new little baby sister was lying in her crib. His mother overheard him say: "Sister, you ought to go back where you came from; you can't do anything you want to do here."

Still Hope.

Petty was talking with her mother about her little brother, and her mother said: "Betty, isn't it funny, Stuart and daddy have blue eyes, while you and I have green eyes?" Betty, thinking deeply, finally said: "Never mind, mother, ours will get ripe some time."

Carlsbad Always in Danger.

Carlsbad, the famous health resort, is built on a crust, underneath which is a subterranean lake of boiling water, and all the hot sulphur springs have to be ceaselessly watched and the pressure kept down lest the town be destroyed.

When Swallows Fly Low.

It is a sign of rain when swallows fly low. When the atmosphere gets saturated with moisture all insects make for shelter and come to earth. As the swallow hawks for insects on the wing it naturally flies low in search of its prey.

High-Sounding Tittles.

Chinese emperors are never mentioned by name from the moment of their accession, and are generally alluded to by some such title as "Lord of a Myriad Years," or "The Son of Heaven."

Ideals and Happiness.

Lasting happiness results from building ideals into concrete structures that minister to human happiness. The material things of the world have their worth, but even that depends upon the uses they are put to. Many a log valuable for furniture building has been used to fill swampy places over which cord-wood was hauled. And the same is true of ideals. To really count they must be found in the hearts of men. Joy comes from building your life into the future and the well-being of the race.

Mankins' Wastefulness.

Mankins' Island, sought by Sir Douglas Mowson as a sanctuary for the Antarctic fur seal, is nearly 400 square miles in area, lying 900 miles from Tasmania, in latitude 55 degrees south. Penguins of various species, sea elephants and seals exist here in great numbers, but are being ruthlessly slaughtered for their oil. A lightless current, living on the island when it was discovered in 1870, has been exterminated by cuts turned loose and allowed to run wild.

Appreciated Love's Tribute.

When Jenny Lind was in Vienna, years ago, a poor German millinery and floristry so that he might sew in her hair daily three red roses as a tribute to her art. He might have sent huge baskets to her over the footlights, but his method was more delicate and Jenny Lind was pleased. Princess Mettenich, too, used to wear flowers in her hair, according to a prominent artist, who trained a whole millinery for her daily.

Ancients Used Wire Rope.

In Egypt thick beaten wire was made into chains as far back as the second dynasty, 2500 B. C., and links doubled and looped through one another appeared in the sixth dynasty, 2200 B. C. Yet chains were not commonly used until much later. The ancients excelled in such work, as they used chain cables and rigging in place of rope to resist the Atlantic gales.

Childish Reasoning.

Elizabeth's mother died three years ago. Recently her father also passed away, leaving her orphaned. Elizabeth, the eldest of three girls. She was placed in a girls' school, where she was called the sister of her misfortune. "God needed them," was the school's consolation. To which Elizabeth exclaimed: "Maybe he did, but I think we kids needed them worse."

Amazons in Uganda.

The women of Uganda are Amazonian in their methods and do not hesitate to use any acknowledgment of their status by force, if necessary. A visitor to that land declares that frequently women working by the roadside will capture a passerby and, on pain of a severe punishment, will make him take a turn with the hoe while they have a smoke.

Closely Related.

Rob was born the same day as his cousin, Helen. Both children started to public school at the same time and the teacher was a family friend of Helen's, but did not know Rob. On asking Helen if Rob was her cousin, she replied: "Yes, indeed Rob and I are twins."

Home Scissors Sharpener.

By accident one day a certain housewife discovered that cutting sandpaper sharpened her scissors. Now she does not have to visit the scissors grinder to come around, for she always keeps a sheet of sandpaper in her machine drawer to sharpen her scissors with.

Businesslike Hotel Man.

To provide exercise for his guests, the manager of a string of California tourist hotels has furnished at each a common, old-fashioned woodpile, well equipped with axes of various weights and not too sharp. Guests are welcome to chop to their heart's content.

The Unchangeable Circus Ring.

While a circus tries to introduce as many innovations as possible, there is one of its most important features has remained unchanged from time immemorial. This is the size of the ring, which is always forty-two feet nine inches in diameter.

When a New Guinea woman falls in love with a man she sends a piece of string to his sister, or, if he has no sister, to his mother. Then the lady who receives the string tells the favored man the particular woman is in love with him.

Morality's Foundation.

A Bible and a newspaper in every house, a good school in every district—all studied and appreciated as they merit—are the principal support of virtue, morality and civil liberty.—Franklin.

Lumber Yard Out of One Log.

One of the largest mahogany logs ever marketed turned out 17,000 feet of solid wood.

Man and Work.

Chinese Calligraphy.
The Chinese, according to a Canton paper, recognize the extreme complexity of their written language. About 20 years ago, in the days of the empress dowager, a scholar and reformer named Wang Chao, who held the highest obtainable literary degree, conceived the idea of a simplified form of Chinese writing. He invented a phonetic system of symbols, which was promptly branded revolutionary and suppressed, while its "radical" author was banished. Later, however, the idea has been introduced, and the government has tried a system of the same kind, but more complicated, without much success. Two missionaries of Tsingchow have tried to make an effort to revive Wang Chao's phonetic script, which is based on the fact that, although the number of characters is vast, there are only 33 "initial sounds" in the Chinese language.

Worth-While Things Costly.

Some folks want a lot of things without paying for them. They forget that somebody must pay bills and give the way. And this can't be done on the spur of the moment. It takes time to build bridges and lay out plans. The wife and the husband have to work hard. And it wouldn't be fit to take over the best day of it could be. The best things of life are matters of time and hard toil. Kid-gloved artists never attempt to rush in great foundation laying enterprises. They do very well for exhibition purposes, but the really hard things of life have to be done by those who have skills and endurance compared to toil. These skills and toil knowing that present work means future pleasure. And it's worth it.—Exchange.

The Navel Orange.

The navel orange originated in Brazil and was introduced into the United States in 1870 by William Saunders, of the United States Department of Agriculture at Washington, D. C. It was distributed by him to the orange growing sections of this country and has often spoken of as the "Washington navel orange." Its peculiar formation, which gives the fruit its name, is due to the development of a secondary axis, with more or less cells, in the center of the fruit; the fact that it is practically seedless, combined with its sprightly flavor, has made this variety of orange popular, and it is largely grown in southern California and increasingly in Florida. The trees are propagated by cutting and by budding or grafting on other stocks.

A Steel House.

A steel house has attracted a good deal of attention at the "Own Your Home" show in New York city. Made of plates of steel, the little four-roomed house is practically a large steel box, which the inventors claim will prove absolutely wind and weather proof and, owing to an airtight space between the walls, both cooler in summer and warmer in winter. Externally, it looks like a concrete house, with a neat red roof, and practically it can be taken down and set up again in a conveniently portable fashion. If four rooms are not enough, one may buy more steel plates and enlarge the dwelling. Thus American domesticity moves onward from the log cabin to the steel house.

Didn't Know Order of Letters.

"I had an odd experience looking for a book," said a woman. "The clerk said the book was not in stock and she would look up the publisher and send for it. She took up the publisher's directory and began to hunt. The title of the book I asked for began with K but she was turning the pages way over to the Ys. I stood it for a few minutes then I said, 'What's the trouble? Don't you know your alphabet?' 'No, I don't,' she confessed, without a blush, 'they didn't teach it when I went to school. Of course I know all the letters in the alphabet, but I don't know in what order they come.'—Springfield Union.

So deep-seated is the belief in evil that even at the solemn ceremony of the Greek baptism, the priest and the godmother exorcise the demons by blowing their breath in the form of a cross over the baby and also about the windows to prevent the further entrance of wicked spirits during the ceremony. The sacred oil with which the baby is anointed at baptism must not be washed off until after 40 days have elapsed. This is rigorously observed, especially among the peasants, and the baby at the end of the allotted time is thickly coated with dust and oil.

Hard on the Trousers.

Though the wonderful mechanism of an artificial leg is of enormous value to those who are obliged to wear it, there is one very serious item to be reckoned with, and that is its tendency to create a big bill for trousers. An officer recently exhibited a tear in his trouser leg caused by some part of the mechanical joint catching in the cloth, and the daily task of pushing the artificial leg into the trousers wears them out in other directions all too soon in these days of costly tailoring.

Happiness.

It takes a very little to bring happiness, and a very little to keep it. The thing some are not happy is because they want too much, and in getting what they want they get the things that drive happiness away.

Low-Cost Mileage—Get It in Goodyear Small Car Tires

There is no economy in buying so-called bargains in tires offered at sensationally cheap prices when a well-made tire delivers mileage at a considerably lower rate of cost.

Add the time and trouble occasioned by frequent replacements and it is fully apparent why tire users, seeking real mileage economy, are not attracted to very cheaply priced tires.

The popularity of Goodyear Tires, of the 30 x 3-, 30 x 3½- and 31 x 4-inch sizes, is based on the fact that they are built to deliver exceptional mileage at low cost and consistently do so.

If you own a Ford, Chevrolet, Dort, Maxwell or other car taking these sizes, go to your nearest Service Station for Goodyear Tires—for true Goodyear mileage, value, economy.

30 x 3½ Goodyear Double-Cure Fabric, All-Weather Tread $23.50

30 x 3½ Goodyear Single-Cure Fabric, Anti-Skid Tread $21.50

Goodyear Heavy Tourist Tubes cost no more than the price you are asked to pay for tubes of less merit—why risk costly casings when such sure protection is available? 30 x 3½ size $4.50 in waterproof bag

GOOD YEAR

They Don't Need Much Sugar

Old fashioned housewives canned by the open kettle method, and required a great deal of sugar to keep the fruit. When sugar was scarce or high they canned very little.

The scarcity of sugar this year is making little difference in canning. The cold pack method not only makes vegetable canning safe and advantageous, but it permits fruit canning to be done in a very light syrup. With our equipment, fruits may be safely canned without sugar.

We have all sizes Jars, Covers, Good Luck Jar Rings, Wrenches, Wax, Ladles, Funnels, Tops, Sieves and Strainers, Handy Jelly Bag or Strainer with table attachment; wood spoons, enamel, aluminum, tinned Basting Spoons, all sizes; Fruit Jar Racks, used in the wash boiler, Handy Fruit Jar Holders. Everything you will need for canning fruits and vegetables.

NEW MINING TOWN IS NOW BUILDING

A new coal town is springing up on two Washington county farms in West Bethlehem township, and already there is a thriving village on the site. A forerunner of the community that is to come. The town, so far as can be learned, has not yet been named. It is near the mine of the Ontario Gas Coal company, where an explosion a few weeks ago resulted in the death of six men.

The location is in a valley through which flows Little Pigeon Creek, west of Cokeburg and northwest of Scenery Hill. The old Nichols school, now replaced by a modern building, is right at the sight of the town. It is only a short walk up over the hill to the western edge of Cokeburg. On the hill above the town is the old Captain Hart homestead, and not far away is the old Judge Hart place.

Only a few months ago this locality was a quiet farming community. In a few months it will be a community of many people, the land covered with buildings and equipment in connection with the new mine. There are already built and occupied between 50 and 60 one-story single brick houses, all of which are substantial, and others to be erected will be of the same type.

Work on the steel tippie is being rushed as fast as possible. The shaft is down to the coal, and some coal is being taken out by bucket. A high tension line carries electric power to the plant, which promises to be in active operation during the coming fall.

PLANS FOR COUNTY TEACHERS' INSTITUTE

County Superintendent L. R. Crumrine has practically completed plans for the annual institute of the teachers of Washington county, which will be held at the county seat beginning Monday, August 23. A splendid list of instructors has been secured for the various sessions of the institute, which is expected to be equally as efficient as those of former years.

BRING SUIT AGAINST FORMER TAX COLLECTOR

Suit for $3,469.98 was instituted on Monday by the borough of South Brownsville against Albert J. Perry, tax collector during the years 1916 and 1917, and the American Surety Company of New York, his bondsman. The amount represents the difference between the duplicate of those years and the amount of money turned over after all exonerations had been allowed, the statement of claim sets forth. The statement further says that numerous efforts have been made to effect a settlement, but without success.

UPHOLDS PROSECUTION OF JAMAICA GINGER CASES

The prosecution by county authorities of merchant who sell Jamaica ginger in large quantities is legal, according to a decision handed down Tuesday morning by Judge E. H. Reppert, of the Fayette county courts, when ten merchants convicted of selling "janie" were denied a new trial. Attorneys for the defendants, who made the motions for new trials, contended that the Volstead act superseded the Brooks' law and said the prosecutions should be made by prohibition enforcement officers.

DEATH AT HANDS OF PARTIES UNKNOWN

"That Charles McAllister came to his death at the hands of a person or persons unknown and recommending that the proper authorities bend every effort to bring the guilty parties to justice," was the text of the verdict returned Wednesday morning by the coroner's jury called to inquire into the death of McAllister, who was found with a fractured skull on the morning of Sunday, June 27th, lying beneath the bridge crossing Pigeon Creek, near the old VanVoorhis homestead, just outside the city limits of Monongahela.

Mrs. M. H. Rhone of 313 Meadow avenue, who has been a patient for the past eight weeks at the St. Francis Hospital, Pittsburgh was removed to her home last evening.

Born—To Mr. and Mrs. Robert Claybaugh, August 8—a son.

SAVE APPLE CROP BY MAKING VINEGAR

"Make your apples into cider vinegar. Don't take a chance of running afoul of the Federal prohibition laws by selling the cider until it has been converted into vinegar."

Dr. James Foust of the bureau of foods, Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, issued this warning to the farmers of Pennsylvania. While it is legal for the farmers to sell sweet cider containing less than one-half of one percent of alcohol, yet the director pointed out that but a slight fermentation will increase the alcoholic content of the cider above the minimum fixed by the Volstead law, and the farmer, as well as his customers, would then be liable to prosecution.

"Cider vinegar will net the farmer from 30 to 35 cents a gallon when sold by the barrel," said Director Foust. "By making his apples into vinegar he avoids all dangers of even innocently violating the Volstead act, but he also brings himself an excellent financial return on his apple crop."

The Federal authorities at Washington have ruled that cider may not be sold unless it contains less than the amount of alcohol fixed by the Volstead act. The average farmer has no means at his disposal of telling the exact alcoholic content of his cider. The safest course, therefore, is to keep it until it turns into vinegar.

NEW 1920 AUTO TAGS YELLOW AND BLACK

The State Highway Department has adopted a yellow tag with black lettering as the type for Pennsylvania's automobile and truck registration for 1921, and orders for manufacturing them in a larger quantity than ever before owing to the numerous new registrations continually being made. The yellow and black tag was first used in this State in 1908 and again three years later. The present blue and white was used in 1918, the 1919 tags having been black and red.

ALLEGHENY COUNTY POPULATION ANNOUNCED

The population of Allegheny county has been announced by the census bureau as 1,184,832, an increase over the census of 1910 of 168,369. These figures are somewhat below those estimated by the commercial bodies of Pittsburgh, but it is a good showing; nevertheless. The announcement of the population of Washington county is being eagerly awaited.

Grades of Witches.
In the olden times there were three classes of witches. The black witch was a harmful affair, and the white witch was a helpful spirit. Then there was the gray witch who was sometimes harmful and sometimes helpful. Inductments against persons accused of witchcraft had to state the complexion of the spirit that bewitched.

Drink Water When Tired.
Dr. Eliza B. Mosher of Brooklyn urged the members of the Women's Medical society of New York state to drink a glass of water at 10 a. m. and others at 3, 4 and 5 p. m. This, she told them, would dilute the products of fatigue which were entering the blood and causing that tired feeling.

Music of the Shepherds.
In the stillness of the night, what more beautiful or soul-elevating than the mournful music of a flute? It was this instrument which the shepherds of Bethlehem were playing that memorable night, when the angels interrupted to announce to them the birth of the Savior.

Powerful Home Influence.
The blessed influences that radiate from a home well ordered and happy are countless and far-reaching; the selfish love there kindled and nourished shines forth as a beacon light to encourage the world's hopes and faith in humanity.—Madam Willard.

A Good Trencherman.
The phrase originated at the time when people ate their food off trenchers. These were usually clean white wood, probably maple, and were often hollow on both sides, so that meat could be served on one side and pudding on the other.

There is something that always makes me feel good—that is a red-haired, freckle-faced little boy that can whip all in his gang and at the same time is not a bully.—Exchange.

Grain Quickly Ripened in Norway.
It is a curious fact that grains ripen earlier in Norway than in the south of Europe, an advantage due to the long days and short nights of the summer in the north.

Moon's Time for Sleep.
A little girl of three, seeing a cloud of smoke enveloping the moon, said, "Auntie, the moon is going to sleep now; see 'em pulling the sheet up over it?"

NEW PACKET LINE PROMISED ON RIVER

Announcement of another attempt to establish a packet line on the Monongahela river is made, the Pittsburgh Transportation Company recently organized, having purchased the packet Leroy for that purpose. According to the schedule given out the boat will leave Pittsburgh every Saturday afternoon for Fairmont, and every Thursday and Monday for Morgantown. The first trip is expected to be made tomorrow.

During the past half dozen years a number of attempts have been made to re-establish packet service on the river, but they have all been failures. Some weeks ago it was announced that the steamer City of Charleston, formerly the old packet L. C. Woodward, would be re-entered in the trade, and was brought to Pittsburgh for that purpose. However a change in plans occurred and the boat is now being used in transporting iron products between Woodlawn and Pittsburgh. The new venture may prove more successful.

MARRIED THIS MORNING IN FAIRMONT, WEST VA.

A pretty marriage was celebrated this morning at nine o'clock at the rectory of St. Peter's Catholic church, Fairmont, W. Va., when Miss Sadie Callahan of that city, formerly of Charleroi was united in marriage with Harry Frank, also of Fairmont. The ceremony was performed by Father Boutlou in the presence of a few intimate friends of the family. The bride was attended by Miss Genevieve Hanger of Charleroi, and the groom by John Callahan a cousin of the bride, of Pittsburgh. The bride was becomingly and stylishly gowned in a suit of salmon silver-tone cloth and wore a black velvet hat and a corsage of roses and sweet peas. Her maid of honor wore a coat suit of blue silver-tone with black velvet hat and her costume was completed by a corsage of roses. Following the ceremony, the bride party went to the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Walter Fullard, on Fairmont Avenue, where a wedding breakfast of attractive appointments was served. The table was centered with roses and sweet peas and covers were laid for ten. Miss Callahan is the daughter of the late John Callahan, but at present she is residing with her sister and is a young woman of a pleasing personality and hosts of friends in Fairmont and Charleroi. Mr. Frank is manager of the Woolworth Five and Ten cent store in Fairmont and is a splendid young business man. Mr. and Mrs. Frank have taken up their residence in Fairmont, West Virginia.
